Young Christian Bloggers Make Their Mark on the Blogosphere

Wednesday, September 21, 2005

The rise of young Christian bloggers —many in their teens — is a welcome development in the blogosphere. My guest on Tuesday's edition of The Albert Mohler Program was Agent Tim. Tim Sweetman is fifteen years old, and he writes a very fine blog, addressing issues of apologetics and Christian concern with great insight.

I asked Tim to recommend some other young Christian bloggers. You will want to check out Mission 3:6Teen, The Blogging Boy Scout, Spunky Jr., Rebelution, SmartHomeSchool, Virtue Magazine.

Agent Tim adds: The Account.
