HISTORICAL SKETCH.

The FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF RICHMOND was organized in 1780. The war of the Revolution was raging, and the British forces, commanded by Lord Cornwallis, were ravaging the province of Virginia, vainly attempting its subjugation. That civil war was near its close at Yorktown, where the British army surrendered to Gen. Washington. Another, longer and still more significant war—that fought mainly by the Baptists of Virginia for religious liberty—was also near its close. The right of all men to worship God, according to the faith and methods dictated by their own consciences, was beginning to be recognized by the civil authorities. The severe ecclesiastical laws by which the Baptists especially had been cruelly oppressed, though not yet repealed, were so opposed to general public sentiment that they could not be enforced. At this transition period this Church was constituted.

Three years before—in 1777—a Church had been organized some fifteen miles southeast of Richmond, and named from the neighborhood in which it was located—Boar Swamp. It is now known as “Antioch Church,” Henrico county, and is flourishing under the pastoral care of Rev. T. T. Wallace. Some of its members resided in and near Richmond; these, with the pastor—Rev. Joshua Morris—in all fourteen in number, were dismissed from the mother Church in 1780, and organized as a separate Church in Richmond.

Richmond was then but a small village, numbering some eighteen hundred inhabitants. The only Church building in the town was St. John’s Episcopal Church, in which service was ordinarily held but three times a year, viz: at "Christmas, Easter and Whitsuntide."

The principal part of the town was then built below Shockoe Creek and upon Church Hill. The foundation of the Capitol had not yet been laid, and the beautiful eminence which it now adorns was a pine forest. A deep ravine, impassable for carriages, running along where Mayo street is now built, cut off communication between Shockoe and Church Hills.

The Church was organized in the residence of a Mr. Franklin, on Union Hill. Subsequently a small frame Church building was erected at the N. E. corner of Cary and Third streets.

Rev. Joshua Morris remained pastor of the Church about six years, and in 1787 removed to the territory of Kentucky, became pastor of Brashear's Creek Church, in Shelby county, and afterward of Cedar Creek Church, in Nelson county. He died near Bardstown, in the summer of 1838, in the 77th year of his age.

The second pastor of the Church was REV. JOHN COURTNEY. He settled in Richmond, when forty-five years old, in 1788. For thirty-six years he faithfully fulfilled the duties of his office. He was a plain, good man, without the advantages of early education, but a devout, laborious and successful minister of Christ.

As the infirmities of advancing age weakened his capabilities for labor, there was associated with him, as co-pastor, Rev. John Bryce, who preached steadily for twelve years, viz: from 1810 to 1822. Then Rev. Andrew Broadus, one of the most eloquent and polished preachers of his day, was co-pastor for a few months in 1822. The same relation was sustained by Rev. Henry Keeling for some three years, viz: from 1822 to 1825.

During the pastorate of Eld. Courtney, a new house of worship was erected on a lot presented to the Church by Dr. P. Turpin, 84 by 134 feet, on what is now the corner of Broad and College streets. This building was enlarged in 1803, and again enlarged in 1827, and is now occupied as the First African Baptist Church.

The Church gradually and healthfully increased during the ministry of Mr. Courtney and the ministers associated with him as co-pastors, until at the time of his death it numbered nearly one thousand members.

An interesting biography of Mr. Courtney is published in Dr. Taylor's "Lives of Virginia Baptist Ministers." He died in Richmond December 18th, 1824, in the 80th year of his age.

Of the associate pastors, Rev. John Bryce was a sound theologian and an instructive preacher. He had been educated for the legal profession, but had left the bar for the pulpit. He closed a laborious and useful life at Henderson, Ky., in 1864, having reached the ripe age of 76. By a singular coincidence he was in his old age pastor of a Church which one of his successors—Rev. Dr. Burrows—had in his youth been instrumental in gathering and organizing.

Rev. Andrew Broaddus, born in Caroline county in 1770, died on December 1st, 1848. He was associate pastor only for a few months. The memoir of him renders any detailed notice unnecessary.

Rev. Henry Keeling continued his residence in Richmond for a time at the head of a flourishing female seminary, and editing first the "Religious Herald" and afterward the "Baptist Pulpit." He died at the age of 76, in 1870.

REV. JOHN KERR became pastor of the Church in March, 1825. He was of Scottish descent, born in Caswell county, N. C., August 4th, 1782. He was converted during the great revival in 1800, and soon after was baptized, and in 1801 licensed to preach. His youthful ministry was successful and popular. It was interrupted for several years by his election to the Congress of the United States. He served two terms and then gave himself wholly to the ministry. During his pastorate in Richmond crowds thronged the house whenever he preached. During the eight years of his service as pastor 957 converts were baptized into the fellowship of the Church, and when he resigned in 1833 the Church numbered 1,695 members, white and black.

Mr. Kerr was prominent and earnest in all Christian work. He succeeded the venerable Semple as moderator of the General Association, and was president of the Education Society for several years.

In 1832, after a long and exciting controversy relating to the doctrines promulgated by Eld. Alexander Campbell, about eighty members withdrew from the Church and organized what is now known as the Seventh St. Christian Church.

Before the final resignation of Mr. Kerr, REV. ISAAC TAYLOR HINTON was elected assistant pastor in April, 1833, and on June 8th of the same year he was ordained, Rev. Dr. Branthy, of Philadelphia, preaching the ordination sermon.

On the 29th of December, 1833, he was unanimously elected sole pastor. He was a judicious, systematic and industrious pastor, a sound and instructive preacher.

In 1835 Mr. Hinton resigned his pastorate and removed first to Chicago, Ill., then to St. Louis, Mo., and in 1844 to New Orleans, where he labored efficiently and successfully until 1847. When the yellow fever was desolating that city in 1847 he resolved to remain at his post. He visited daily the sick and the dying in his ministrations of love, and himself fell a sacrifice to his devotion in August, 1847. In the Lives of Virginia Baptist Preachers may be found an interesting biographical sketch.

At the close of Mr. Hinton's pastorate the Church numbered 1,717 members, of whom 1,384 were colored persons and 333 whites; of these 100 were males and 233 females.

Rev. Jeremiah B. Jeter accepted the call of the Church and became its pastor January, 1836.

Mr. Jeter was born in Bedford county, Va., July 18th, 1802. He entered the ministry in his native county in 1822, and removed in 1827 to the "Northern Neck," where he was pastor of the Meratico Church, Lancaster county, and of Wicomico Church, Northumberland county. An earnest, clear and logical preacher, a consistent and devout Christian of exceptionally pure and manly character, a thorough thinker, laborious student and lucid writer—he won the confidence and affection of his own people and of all classes and denominations in the city and in the State. No man has ever attained a larger influence or used it more wisely and beneficently in the ministry of Virginia than Dr. Jeter.

During the pastorate of Dr. Jeter the Church steadily increased in number and in efficiency.

In 1841 the present Church edifice was erected at a cost of some $40,000. It has since been twice enlarged.

The old building was given to the colored members, who were set apart as a separate Church in 1841, and whose pastor, Rev. Dr. Ryland, president of Richmond College, fulfilled a faithful, effective and successful ministry among them for more than twenty years.

At the time of the division the number of white members removing to the new edifice was 387. The colored members, numbering about 1,670, were constituted as "The First African Baptist Church of Richmond."

In the following year—1842—under the labors of Dr. Jeter and assisting ministers, a gracious revival of religion added 160 members to the Church, a majority of whom were males. Dr. Jeter continued his service to the Church, which steadily increased in numbers and in influence until June, 1849, when he removed to St. Louis, Mo., to take charge of the Second Baptist Church in that city. In 1852 he returned to Richmond, becoming pastor of the Grace Street Church. Besides various minor treatises, sermons and contributions to periodical literature, he published "A Memoir of Rev. Abner W. Clopton," "The Life of Mrs. Henrietta Shuck," "A Memoir of Rev. Andrew Broaddus," "The Christian Mirror," "Campbellism Examined," and "Seal of Heaven." As editor of the "Religious Herald," he has contributed many valuable essays and articles to the religious literature of the country, and raised that paper to the highest rank among the Christian periodicals of the country.

For several months after the resignation of Dr. Jeter the Church remained without a pastor, the pulpit being supplied by Rev. Dr. Taylor, Rev. Dr. Ryland and for some months by the promising and lamented Rev. C. B. Jennet.

In November, 1850, Rev. Basil Manly, Jr., who had recently graduated at the Princeton Theological Seminary, was elected pastor, and entered upon the duties of the office. 180 converts were baptized into the fellowship of the Church during his ministry of four years, and nearly 100 were dismissed to organize the Leigh Street Church. Dr. Manly was a devoted, earnest, intelligent worker in this his first pastoral charge, and won the confidence and love of the people by his unassuming piety and affectionate, genial nature. In April, 1854, deeming his physical strength inadequate to the laborious duties of the position, he resigned and accepted the presidency of the "Richmond Female Institute," a seminary erected and furnished mainly by the Baptists of Richmond, at a cost of about $70,000. The school became very prosperous and efficient under his management, numbering at one time about 280 pupils. In 1859 he accepted the professorship of “Biblical Introduction and Interpretation of the Old Testament” in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at Greenville, S. C.

In Oct., 1854 Rev. J. L. Burrows, D. D., was called to the pastoral charge of the Church and accepted. He has lately left to become pastor of Broadway Baptist Church, Louisville, Kentucky.

Dr. Burrows was born in New York, and ordained to the ministry in that State. Prior to his removal to Virginia, he was pastor of Churches in Kentucky and Philadelphia. In October, 1854, he became pastor of this Church, and for twenty years has discharged the duties laboriously and efficiently. During his ministry he has received by experience and baptism into this Church 987 persons. What he accomplished for the Church does not measure his useful labors. At every call of duty he has been ready to respond. In protracted meetings, in Sunday Schools, at dedications, ordinations, commencements—in all our religious convocations, his ability and influence have been potential. During the war he labored with extraordinary powers of endurance, visiting the hospitals and prisons, preaching in camps and on the march, and, as a member of the ambulance committee, succoring the wounded and burying the dead of both armies.

When, in 1872, the Memorial enterprise was undertaken, and the effort to raise not less than $300,000 for the endowment of Richmond College was attempted, the work was largely entrusted to Dr. Burrows, as general agent. This Church released him from pastoral service for six months, continuing his salary. In his absence the pulpit was supplied most acceptably by Rev. D. B. Winfree, D. D., and Rev. John A. Broadus, D. D., LL. D.

Dr. Burrows has served as trustee of Richmond College and Richmond Female Institute, as member and as president of the Foreign Mission Board, as moderator and clerk of Dover Association, as president of the General Association, and as president of the Education Board. While all his labors have been generously and efficiently rendered, in connection with the Education Board, he accomplished a great work; and many of our prominent ministers owe to Dr. Burrows the preparations they have received at college for preaching the Gospel. Whatever promised benefit to city, State or Churches never found in Dr. Burrows a tardy or unwilling advocate.

The following table shows, so far as can now be collated, the increase by baptisms and the total number of communicants in successive years. The first record book of the Church, containing the minutes up to 1825, having been lost, a complete register cannot now be made out. By consulting Semple's History, Asplund's & Allen's Registers, some of the earlier columns have been filled.
